ABOUT MYSELF

As a Front End Developer with two years of experience, I have honed my skills in all facets of React development, from crafting components to utilizing state management tools like Zustand and Redux. My collaboration with UI/UX teams has ensured the seamless integration of visuals and interactive designs into websites, enhancing user experience. Additionally, I actively collaborate with backend teams to integrate APIs into the frontend, enabling robust functionality.

Moreover, I have developed a comprehensive set of user-facing features that provide significant value to companies. My problem-solving abilities, combined with a people-centric nature, have refined my organizational skills, making me an effective team player.

Furthermore, I have expertise in Next.js, leveraging its capabilities for server-side rendering to optimize performance and enhance scalability in my projects. My problem solving, teamwork and people-centric nature, have afforded me excellent organization skills
